Tuesday, April 6. 1708.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated April 10.

Turin, March 24.

VELT-MARSHAL Staremberg arriv'd here two Days ago from Milan: He waits only for the Squadron of the Allies that is to carry the rest of the Troops to Catalonia, and then will go into that Country, and take upon him the Command of the Army there. As soon as he arriv'd here, he went to wait on his Royal Highness, who receiv'd him with great Marks of Respect and Distinction: He has order'd an Apartment for him in the Palace, and will defray his Expences during his Stay here. So great a Quantity of Snow is fallen in the Mountains, that the Troops on either Side will not be able to pass over them for some time. M. Brockhausen, the Imperial Secretary at this Court, is gone to Vienna with some Instructions from his Royal Highness. The Recruits for the Foot, and Horses to remount the Imperial Cavalry in Italy begin to arrive, and some of them have already joyn'd their respective Bodies: The others continue their March with all Diligence, so that they will be at their several Rendezvous before the Month of May. We continue the necessary Preparations for taking the Field early. His Royal Highness has given Orders to his General of the Artillery, to cause to be brought on the Plain of the Citadel 40 Pieces of Cannon of 32 Pounders, others of a less Bore, and some Field-pieces.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated April 10.

Messina, March 2. On Saturday last the Marquis de los Balbafes our Viceroy, attended by many Gentlemen and Officers, came hither from Palermo, and was receiv'd by Six Salvoes of the Artillery of all our Forts and Ramparts, and likewise of the Ships that are lying in the Harbour. 'Tis said his Excellency will continue here all the Summer, to keep a watchful Eye on the Motions of the Allies, who are making great Preparations in the Kingdom of Naples, in order to make a Descent in this Kingdom, as soon as the English Fleet arrives, and to reduce it to the Obedience of the House of Austria. We are here taken up with recruiting our Troops, to which end the Money that the Spanish Ambassador sent hither lately from Rome will be of no small service. By Order of the Viceroy Commissaries are sent to all the Sea-ports to take notice what Foreigners arrive, and to examine into the Reasons that brought them hither. We hear that the eight Ships loaded with Corn, which were some time ago sent to Sardinia under Convoy of the Frigates of the Captain Nellini and Mezzaferrata are safely arriv'd at Cagliari. The Government keeps three strong Corps-de-guards in this City, and our Cavalry patrols every Night through the Streets, which seems something strange to the Inhabitants. Three of our Privateers would have made a Descent near Nicotarra in Calabria, but were repuls'd with great Loss by the Peasants, and by four Companies of Neapolitan Horse.

Geneva, March 19. The Ships which the English and Dutch have hir'd here will Sail this Week for Final or Vado to take on board the Imperial and Palatine Cavalry, to transport them to Catalonia. The Duke of Savoy's Minister has desir'd leave of our Council of State, to buy up a good Quantity of Gun-powder, which 'tis thought will be granted him. The Great Prior of France, Brother of the Duke of Vendome went from hence a few Days ago in one of our Gallies for Antibes, from whence he will continue his Way forwards through Provence for Paris. The Captain of a Ship who arriv'd here yesterday in six days from Barcelona, reports that King Charles was making all the necessary preparations for opening the Campaign; and that he hop'd to bring an Army of 25000 Men into the Field by the middle of April. The French had not yet made any Motion either on the side of Lerida, or in Roussillon. The English Man of War call'd the Swallow, which sail'd hence on the 5th Instant for Catalonia with 250000 Ducats came the 9th to Barcelona: Before which Town there lay five British Men of War, and four Frigates, which in all appearance were to continue there all the Summer. The Duke of Turis has put off his Departure for Madrid till Easter. Some Millions are negociated here for the Court of France.

Turin, March 21. The Marquis of Cortanza, who came hither from Vienna on Saturday last, will be going back thither in a short time, to regulate some Affairs of Moment with the Imperial Court. Our Duke has Order'd the Train of Artillery, that is to be made use of next Campaign, to be very much encreas'd, and a great Quantity of Bombs and other Fireworks are sent to Pignerol and Susa, so that 'tis not doubted but Perugia will be besieg'd, after the taking of which Place 'twill be easie to March into Dauphine: But the French threaten in that case to destroy their own Country, to hinder our Troops from all possibility of Subsisting.

Milan, March 24. All the Imperial Foot, which to the Number of 10000 Men, Winter'd in the Mantuan, Cremonese and Lodigiano, is Marching to strengthen the Army of the Duke of Savoy, who has agen sent an Express to Vienna concerning the Countries and Towns that the Emperour promis'd him.

From the Paris Gazette, dated March 31.

Venice, March 10. M. Antonio Mocenigo, who was lately elected to be Ambassador in France, has sent away his Equipage before him: and M. Nicolo Foscarini was made choice of the 27th of last Month for the Embassy of England. Though the Letters from Constantinople give grounds to believe that the Turks have discontinu'd to arm both by Sea and Land, the Republick nevertheless goes on to make the necessary Preparations to put themselves in a posture of Defence: And the 8th of this Month a Ship of 100 Pieces of Cannon was launch'd in the Water of the Arsenal. All the Letters from the Terra Firma speak of the great Damage that has been caus'd by the overflowing of the Rivers, particularly of the Adige, which has overflow'd overflow'd and broke down its Banks in several Places, insomuch that the Navigation of that River is become impracticable. The Advices from Milan say, that the Government there had receiv'd Letters from an unknown Hand, threatening them very highly in case they did not bring down the price of Corn and Salt to the same Rate it was at some Months ago. The Troops of the Pope, which were Order'd to leave the Duchy of Parma, and Piacenza, where they are not of the least Service, seeing the Imperialists have no regard to the Remonstrances made to them by the Officers of the Ecclesiastical State, have put off their March because of the ill Weather. They write from Genoa, that since the Arrival of the Succours from Italy, there were not in Catalonia above 12 or 15000 Men of regular Troops, most part of whom were to be put into Garrison in Tortosa, Tarragona, Barcelona and Gironne. The same Letters add, that the Squadron of the Galleys of Turfif had landed a Reinforcement of 200 Men at Porto-Longone in the Isle of Elba, that upon advice of it the Imperialists who block'd up the Place, had abandon'd a Post they were Masters of, and reforc'd the Garrison of Porto San-Stefano on the Coast of Tuscany: and that the Galleys were sail'd for Civita-Vecchia, to take aboard 500 Men, whom the Ministers of France and Spain had lent thither with Provisions and Ammunition for the Garrison of Porto Hercole, which continu'd to make a brave Defence.

Weymouth, April 3. Yesterday came in Captain Chubb in the Hazardous Privateer of Jersey, who has taken a Prize laden with Wine, and ransom'd her for 1400 Livres.

Harwich, April 3. This Morning sail'd all the Transport-Ships, &c. that were here with their Convoy for Holland; and the Marlborough Pacquet-Boat with a Mail for Holland.
